

Jackson Hole Conservation Alliance info lunch:

“Birds of Sage and Scree”

Wednesday, Dec. 15, 2010 • Noon to 1 p.m. • Alliance office, 685 S. Cache St.

Please join Jackson Hole’s best known birder Bert Raynes and wildlife painter extraordinaire Greg McHuron for an informal get-together and discussion about their recent collaboration, “Birds of Sage and Scree.”

Published this past summer, this elegant book includes reproductions of nearly 30 oil paintings by McHuron, accompanied by Raynes’ musings about feathered friends that frequent the region.

Copies will be available for signing and sale; all proceeds benefit the Meg and Bert Raynes Wildlife Fund, which supports Nature Mapping Jackson Hole, a project to gather data about wildlife for use in conservation efforts.

For details about the book and its authors, visit www.birdsofsageandscree.info. On Dec. 15, bring lunch; we’ll provide drinks and treats.

(This holiday season, we’re also encouraging people to bring canned goods for donation to the local food bank, Jackson Hole Food Cupboard ~ thanks!)
